

Tailored for In-House Lawyers by In-House Lawyers

TUPE 2010

Event Sponsor: Pinsent Masons

9 September 2010, London

The 2006 Regulations introduced very significant changes in relation to TUPE transfers particularly in relation to outsourcing or "service provision changes". Unfortunately, however, the 2006 Regulations have not removed all uncertainty and case law on the new Regulations has once again raised the possibility of avoiding a TUPE transfer and introduced further uncertainty particularly in relation to the impact of a change of place of work on a TUPE transfer. We will provide you with a thorough practical analysis of the impact of the 2006 Regulations and review the latest significant case law. We will also provide practical guidance on how employers and their advisers should deal with the problem areas including a thorough analysis from the point of view of seller or buyer in an acquisition scenario, client or contractor in an outsourcing or offshoring scenario.

Intellectual Property in the Business: Managing the Risks and Grasping the Opportunities

Event Sponsor: Lewis Silkin LLP

14 September 2010, London

This popular annual seminar provides both an up-to-date refresher on the perennial IP basics and also in-depth consideration of a number of hot topics selected for their relevance to in-house legal counsel. Coverage this year will include: key IP developments of the past year; protecting and enforcing your brands in the global marketplace; the legal challenges of the online environment; key recent developments in advertising/marketing regulation; and a case-study looking at optimal IP strategies for launching new product lines and leveraging/defending existing cash cows. The emphasis throughout will be on the practical and commercial implications of the issues discussed.

Insurance E-commerce

Event Sponsor: Clyde & Co

16 September 2010, London

Half-day seminar*

For Insurance organisations a full understanding of the risks and rewards of e-commerce is vital to ensure the successful communication and delivery of insurance products and services. This workshop will highlight the regulatory, contractual and jurisdictional issues that need to be taken on board in relation to online transactions, including the regulatory aspects of selling financial services online.

Key Issues for In-House Counsel: Answers to Your Most Frequently Asked Questions

Event Sponsor: Clyde & Co

20 September 2010, London

Based on their experience of working with in-house lawyers in a range of industries, the panel of speakers will address the issues on which lawyers in business most often seek their advice. By arming yourselves with the information on the key specialisms which will be covered, you can save both you and your managers time and money, by minimising your need to have recourse to external lawyers.

Health and Safety 2010: An Update and Practical Guidance for In-House Lawyers

Event Sponsor: Shook, Hardy & Bacon Int'l LLP and Henderson Chambers

20 September 2010, London

Hear from leading H&S practitioners Shook Hardy & Bacon and Henderson Chambers about the current liability and enforcement climate, including Corporate Manslaughter. Learn how in-house lawyers can help with crisis management and avoid conflicts of interest when advising colleagues involved in health and safety investigations. With updates on cases, legislation and interfaces with employment law issues this seminar is designed to help you understand the business risks. To complete the day a mock hearing will highlight the issues companies face in being convicted after a serious accident. There is an optional pre-seminar briefing 'Introduction to H&S law' for those new to the subject or just wanting a refresher.

Interpretation of Financial Statements

Event Sponsor: Herbert Smith

22 September 2010, London

This seminar builds on, and revises key aspects of, the very popular previous C&I seminar "Understanding Financial Statements", and is presented by the same team. It looks in more detail at the more subjective areas of published financial information in the UK and considers how these impact on business decisions and the resulting transaction process. There are some aspects of accounting that still allow different approaches in relation to vital aspects of how a company's performance is reported. In line with the UK's project to converge with international standards (International Financial Reporting standards - IFRS) we have seen many international ways of accounting filter into UK GAAP in the last few years. With the proposed end to UK GAAP for many companies from 2012 users of accounts must get to grips with where the subjective areas remain within a set of accounts. This is a stand-alone event and it is not essential that delegates have already attended the previous seminar 'Understanding Financial Statements'.

Marketing: Personal Data and Privacy Issues - A Legal and Practical Update

Event Sponsor: Osborne Clarke

22 September 2010, London

With penalties for data protection law breaches ratcheting up, behavioural technology enabling ever greater leverage of customer data and a former advertising regulator in pole position at the Information Commissioner's Office, there's never been a more important time for in-house lawyers to ensure they have the key bases covered when it comes to marketing and data protection law. This seminar offers practical solutions, taking delegates through the critical stages of the marketing process where mastering data privacy issues and managing related risks are vital to maintaining customer confidence and avoiding the unwelcome attention of the regulators.

Renewable Energy
Event Sponsor: CMS Cameron McKenna
Half-day seminar*

23 September 2010, London

The transition to a Low Carbon Economy will affect every business in the UK in the coming years. This half day seminar will provide an update on the Government's plans and their implications for all businesses, not just those in the energy sector. It will also provide an introduction to investing in renewable energy projects - designed for those in other sectors who may be keen to "green" their business but for whom energy is not a core focus.

Corporate Governance in the Future
Event Sponsor: Slaughter and May

29 September 2010, London

The in-house lawyer has a key role in helping to minimise the risks his organisation is facing. These risks may include issues arising from the increased spotlight on public sector finances that have a knock on effect on the private sector, the impact Climate Change might have on the IHL's activities and how compliance processes, carbon accounting and environmental reporting might affect corporate governance. In addition, there are changes afoot in the field of corporate governance under the revised Combined Code, remuneration and obligations proposed to come into force under the Bribery Bill. These issues will have an impact on the role of the IHL and how he carries out his role in promoting and implementing corporate governance strategies. In changing times the roles of the in-house lawyer as trusted advisor on corporate governance issues, and manager of legal and regulatory risk, become all the more critical. This seminar will discuss the corporate governance issues that arise and explore the value added by the IHL in supporting forward looking strategies.

Derivatives & Treasury Products - Understanding the Products and their Applications
Event Sponsor: Field Fisher Waterhouse LLP

29 September 2010, London

Derivatives and treasury products are increasingly part of everyday life - indeed the economic world can probably no longer survive without them. With the increasingly widespread use of derivative products and the recent turmoil in financial markets, corporates and other end-users, as well as finance professionals, have to be more familiar than ever with the products. This seminar will comprise a series of lectures, interspersed with case study-based workshops, enabling participants to focus on the products, what they are used for and some key legal and commercial issues and common problem areas. This is a stand-alone event which complements the C&I seminar addressing Derivatives documentation, held in May.
